3. Lesson Learned (A report of lessons learned should address some key issues)

Parenting is the process of promoting and supporting the physical, emotional, social and intellectual development of the child from infancy to adulthood. Importance of parenting from adult's perspective and importance of parenting from child's perspective was the highlights of the program as it makes both child and the parents realize where they have gone wrong and what needs to be done to correct the mistakes for the betterment of everyone including the other siblings at home. The long-term goal for the parenting program is to bring parents together in preventing other siblings from similar offence, render their support in reintegration and rebuilding the relationship.

The budget allocated for the program was sufficient since it was a day long program. The cost fluctuates depending upon the no of participants.

4. Risk Analysis (Report on changes, challenges or achievements)

The only difficulties the office faced was to contact the parents. Some of the residents does not even know their parent's whereabouts which made the office and RBP difficult to trace them and letting them know about their own child.

5. Way forward

The parenting program proved to be a very effective and successful program. The objectives of the program is reaching our long term goal in transforming children's and parent's attitude and beliefs. The office feels such programs does makes lots of difference to both children and the parents and hopes to conduct such program not only in YDRC but in other centers and schools too. The 2 resources persons were highly trained with their inter-personal skills to deal and impart their skills to participants. The Royal Bhutan Police plays important role in building children wholesome education and skills while at YDRC, the program was successful and conducive with the support form Police and YDRC management team.

Nazhoen Lamtoen on behalf of Youth Development and Rehabilitation Centre would like to extend our heartfelt gratitude to Save the Children, Hong Kong and Save the children Bhutan for supporting the program, which benefited all the children at YDRC. We hope similar program at YDRC will have greater impact on the lives of children.
