3. Lesson Learned

The objectives set was very useful as it helps one to think about the mistakes and help pave their way towards the brighter future. It also helps one to think calmly when it comes to problem solving and make an appropriate decision. It also helps one to have a positive attitude, how to cope with the emotions and to be positive in everything. All the objectives were followed according to the agenda and the results can be seen in their results as there was a huge difference after their pre and post-test.

The office strongly feels the need to organize and implement more programs related to Drug and suicide preventions as the drugs get them to where they are now and suicide being the constant thoughts of the residents.

The budget allocated was not sufficient as the program was for five days and the number of participants was little higher than the office expected which doubles the expenses.

The training conducted on 19th-23rd December 2017 in collaboration with RBP was a success thanks to saving the children for its financial support.

3. Risk Analysis (Report on changes, challenges or achievements)

The program was a success. The office didn't face any difficulties or challenges while conducting the program thanks to RBP and Save the Children for their tireless support.

4. Way forward

The week-long life skill training program proved to be very effective and successful. The objectives of the program are reaching our long-term goal in transforming children's attitudes and beliefs. The 2 resource persons were highly trained with their interpersonal skills to deal and impart their skills to participants. The Royal Bhutan Police plays an important role in building children's wholesome education and skills while at YDRC, the program was successful and conducive with the support from Police and YDRC management team.

This kind of program will benefit the children at YDRC in a wide range of their life once released. Having only vocational skills is not enough for them in life, the most important is to have self-awareness, self esteem and self-confidence, which life skills touches it. Most of the residence belongs from dysfunctional family and lack self esteem, which stop them from availing opportunity and scope in future. Further they have misbelieves they are not capable of achieving better thing in life. The life skills program has taken them deep into the realization of living life on life terms. According to the pre-test and final test, the program proved that each one of them had their unique skills and talents, which will immensely benefit in their coming life ahead.

Nazhoen Lamtoen on behalf of Youth Development and Rehabilitation Centre would like to extend our heartfelt gratitude to Save the Children, Hong Kong and Save the children Bhutan for supporting the program, which benefited all the children at YDRC. We hope similar program at YDRC will have greater impact on the lives of children.
